SOME STATS FOR YA

- A new customer costs up to 5x more than an existing customer (ad costs, energy costs)
- Repeat customers are more likely to spend more at checkout (about 31% more)
- Repeat customers are more likely to share about your brand (3-5x more likely in fact! free marketing!)
- One study found that increasing your return customers by just 5% can lead to a 25-95% increase in profit

WORKING ON BOOSTING YOUR REPEAT CUSTOMERS IS A GREAT
EXAMPLE OF WORKING SMARTER NOT HARDER IN YOUR BIZ.

It's less energy, effort, and money to get a return customer to come back and buy vs finding an all new cold browser and convince them to buy the first time.

CAN YOU ACTUALLY TRACK YOUR REPEAT CUSTOMERS?

- Etsy puts a star next to their order
- Shopify will tell you how many orders & how much money each customer has had
- You may be able to track this in your ESP (email service provider) too

WHAT SHOULD YOU BE LOOKING AT?

The more info you can extract about your typical customer journey, the better.

- How long between repeat purchases?
- What do they buy the first time? What do they come back and buy?
- How much are they spending each time?
- What brought them in to begin with and what brings them back? (coupon code, an email, a retargeting ad, etc.)

IF YOU DON'T KNOW, YOU CAN ALWAYS ASK.

HOW CAN WE GET MORE REPEAT CUSTOMERS?

BUT FIRST...

THINK ABOUT YOUR ACTUAL PRODUCT SUITE.

DO YOU ACTUALLY HAVE PRODUCTS FOR EXISTING CUSTOMERS TO COME BACK AND BUY?

- Does your product wear out and need to be replaced?
- Can your customer collect items from you?
- Is your product giftable?
- Do you have a well thought-out product ladder up which your customer can “graduate”?

....or is your a product a one and done? And even if your customers love your brand, there's really nothing much for them to come back and buy?

THIS WAS MY PROBLEM.

I had one great product that offered lifetime access for a one-time purchase. I had hundreds of happy customers and a great, engaged email list... with nothing else to sell them.

- After the purchase, invite them to become part of your world – you need future touch points
 - Calls-to-action to follow you on social
 - Add new customers to your email list (and build out a follow-up sequence)
 - Invite them to an exclusive VIP list or group of fans/customers
- You can put these CTAs on your post-purchase thank you page, in your packaging, etc.

BAKE THESE IDEAS INTO YOUR BIZ MODEL

- Referral programs – a commission, referral fee, or shop credit for any sales that an existing customer refers to you
 - UpPromote for Shopify
- Include samples of your best-selling products in their first order
- Run re-targeting ads for customers

BAKE THESE IDEAS INTO YOUR BIZ MODEL

- Customize (but automate) the shopping & follow-up experience as much as possible
 - Automated post-purchase email sequence
 - Thanks for buying
 - Style or use guide for their product
 - Personalized future product recommendations with an incentive
 - Invite to connect
- Simple - email existing customers when a new product launches

Subscription Special! $5 MORE off your first kit!

Hello!!! We don't do a bunch of sales but wanted to do something special to kick off summer, so if you're taking a break from the Memorial Day heat, head to our site and order a new subscription and get an extra $5 off our already discounted $35 price on your first kit!

REDUCING CHURN:

1. Ask “why” when a subscriber leaves – automate your cancellation survey.
2. Keep engaging with your customers.
3. Educate your customers (an “on-boarding” sequences is good). Give them the tools to succeed with your product.
4. Reward longevity with incentives & discounts.
5. Build in the ability to pause your subscription.
6. Continue to surprise & delight.

- Abandoned cart email sequence
 - Follow-up emails sent to browsers who added products to their cart but left before purchasing (recovers around 10% of lost revenue!). Mobile cart abandonment is about 85% for ecomm!

↓↓↓ Here's an example of my very own abandoned cart sequence from a few months ago. In a 30 day period, it earned $948 in revenue for me. All from sending ONE automated follow-up email to abandoned cart-ers. All on auto-pilot - something I set up once (several years ago) that now makes revenue for me without lifting a finger. ↓↓↓
